Comment by Gary S. Gevisser:

The problems of the world have nothing to do with race, color, sex or religion, simply poor parental religious teaching and greedy, selfish people who think this world is all about "money, me" and to populate.

It is time for children of the world whose parents never saw fit to explain to them once they realized when looking at all the data that human overpopulation is the "root of all evil" versus the verses in the Bible that talk to "Love of money" since money is only one means of exchange, but one that the western world in particular has got so very easily hooked on, to empower other children as well to parent the parents who need the most help figuring out not only how easily they got misled but how extraordinarily easy it is to fix the problem.

All that is required is to follow the "money trail" back to the time when the American Dream was to "own a home" and who then benefitted from out-of-control real estate development, the mortgaging of our children's future.

Why wait
