Dad,

You are a coward and should be ashamed of yourself.

I can live with myself comfortably knowing that I am honest and have done nothing wrong. I don't need you or anyone to validate me. Just because you and the rest of the family have all decided that it is easier to pretend that your problems don't exist doesn't mean that it is right. You can call me a liar, and you can think that I am not speaking for myself, but at the end of the day you are the one that has to live with your actions:

- 1) Neglecting to pay child support while using the money so that you could live it up as a bachelor screwing everything that wasn't nailed down.
- 2) Sending me back to Linda, the babysitter at age 4+ after knowing that her older son was sexually inappropriate with me.
- 3) Committing credit card fraud, using my name and social so that you could by Jewelry for your crazy ex-wife and yourself.
- 4) Ignoring signs of abuse that Jeff showed which I had to figure out the hard way, and sending me to stay with your pedophile stepfather by myself starting at age 5.
- 5) Calling me a liar when I finally tell you that Ed tried to molest me.
- 6) And finally shunning me because it is easier for you to be angry at the messenger than to actually take responsibility for your actions.

Someday Josh, Laura, and Jeremy will know why their older brother is no longer in your life.

You have called me a liar, and put it in writing, but Jeff explained in simple English in an email appeal to you, exactly who the liar is;

"I would not trust Ed alone with any child at any point. Mom will never accept the fact the he is a Pedophile because she is not willing to give him up rather than giving us up." ~ Jeff Tucker

Even after Jeff's corroboration of what I said and warning, you still welcomed your mother and Ed into your home for Thanksgiving of all things, with my little brother present. How will you explain that to Jeremy when he is old enough to question you as he is being taught in temple?

As your mother said to you regarding her choosing Ed over you and your brothers, I will now do the same to you; your mother will be gone someday and after she is gone you will be left alone having pushed away the son that you were so proud of, and left in my place, the knowledge that you had a choice to confront painful truths and instead you chose to take the easy way out and hide behind misdirected anger.

You can come up with what ever rationalizations you need in order to go to sleep at night and to make it through the day, but every time you look into the eyes of Jeremy, Josh, and Laura, you will be reminded of the way that I once looked up to you, and wonder when they too will discover you for the coward that you are.

Your emails and the emails that Jeff and Lois sent are all records that you will not be able to talk your way out of. When Josh, Laura, and Jeremy one day see them you will again have to relive this experience; just as you will again and again in this life and the next, until you decide to face your truths.

I wish you well, for I have no control over your conscience, or the guilt that you will live with from this day forward.

Disappointed,
Adam

You have chosen the path of lies so live with it. It is too bad you no longer speak for yourself and now have no forum for the idiot and yourself. I thought I had a son who was really looking for the truth. What you have found is the bigger lie.- Yourself-I told you to leave my mother alone and you choose to expose her to that idiot and you. So take care of your shit somewhere else. You are no longer welcome in my life.

Lois,

You have had over 50 years to lie to yourself, I will not allow you to walk away from what you have created; your position clearly stated as my Dad repeated what you told your boys when they expressed their dislike of Ed your would be husband; telling them that one day they would leave the home and that you would be left alone. How selfish can you be to not only allow your sons to be molested by your companion, but to then victimize Jeff and myself once again by calling us liars. Jeff was your youngest and most vulnerable child, and I your "favorite" grandchild; I hate to see how you treat your enemies.

You disgrace Judaism and your family by presenting yourself as respectful members of your temple and community, and living a life as a hypocrites. Ed will have to deal with his own actions, but to turn a blind eye to evil because it suits you is atrocious. I am ashamed of you and my father for claiming ignorance to "harmless" Ed. Jeff's emails to me and my father confirmed the irreparable damage and hurt that Ed caused him. None of which had to explained to me or Phillip to understand why Jeff responsibly refused to allow his children to be around Ed without his protection. For my father with my adopted 9 year old brother in the home to then welcome you and Ed in for Thanksgiving and break bread with you both, knowing full well what Ed did to Jeff and I, is atrocious and unforgivable.

I don't find it the least bit ironic that my father cowardly ignored the truth just as you did; the fruit never falling far from the tree.

You deserve what ever pain this brings to you as you have not only done nothing to prevent harm to your family, but you brought a predator into your home and offered up your children as well as grandchildren because you were afraid of being lonely.

Ironic that you would think that you were ever in a position to criticize my mother's selfish parenting when you were so cowardly and selfishly doing much worse.

Your Children's blood father, Shelly was at least honest enough to walk away from his children.

How dare you criticize anyone or think that you deserve to be left alone!

Ashamed, and disgraced by your actions and lack there of,

Adam
Your once favored grandchild

I am forwarding this to you and ask you so now what. You have made these statements so what would you want to happen. Jeff never told me anything about this and You never mentioned this to me. If you want to to solve issues you first creat some support systems around you . You however have chosen to push everyone away who ever tried , from the goodness within them to help you with no alterior motives- from my point of view you have hurt a lot of people for no good reason. This is something that I will only express because you have chosen the path of hatred rather than understanding.

Dear Adam,

I received your shocking e-mail and after speaking with Grandpa Ed, nothing like that ever happened. Sorry your imagination has run wild with you and you are dreaming up all these things. It really hurt me and Grandpa to read your e-mail.

We do not care to see you at all because of your shocking behavior.

Grandma Lois

Dear Grandma Lois,

I'm not sure exactly how old I was, but I think I was around 11 years of age when I visited you and Grandpa Ed at your home in West Palm Beach, Florida. You were still working at the time and it was the same visit during which you gave me an autographed picture from a previous Miss America winner that was working in your office.

Grandpa Ed and I were watching television one day and Ed said that Claudia who was my step-mom at the time, had said I like this kind of movie and then proceeded to place a video cassette in the VCR. I don't remember the details of the movie but I remember that it was pornographic. Ed then brought out vibrators that looked like back massagers that would strap to someone's hand, and then said that it would feel good to put the vibrator on my crotch. He never touched me to my recollection, but I made him aware that I was uncomfortable with it and he stopped.

The next morning, I woke up with Ed sitting in a chair next to my bed, staring at me.

I don't recall it ever happening again, but I have never felt comfortable in his company.

I will not be attending Thanksgiving, but depending on how you respond to this I may be willing to meet you for lunch.

Adam

P.S. - Dad,

When I told you that I woke up to Ed staring at me you said that he was harmless and dismissed it. Not knowing the details of why Jeff refuses to speak with your parents, but knowing that it involves Ed, I cannot understand how you would have allowed me to be in his company without your supervision. I trusted you as a child to protect me and instead, you sent me to someone that you had reason to believe could harm me.
