

From: Gary S. Gevisser - daacstar@yahoo.com
To: dolores.meanley@sduhsd.net
Cc: rest; Senator Ted M Kennedy; Office for the Israeli Department of Defense Attache, Israeli Embassy, Washington, DC; Mossad; Kate Moss; JKPJKP@alum.mit.edu; Pp-ed@latimes.com; edepstein@worldnet.att.net; devinstandard@yahoo.com
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 12:04:05 PM
Subject: Contact Principal

I wish to contact the principal of Torrey Pines High School to share my personal knowledge of The Diamond Invention, a book written by Hollywood blockbuster author Edward Jay Epstein.

My timing of reaching out to you all right now has everything to do with the United States economy now, this very instant, in "dire straits", the result of now 3 generations of our lazy, all about "money, me-quick-get-rich-stealing kids" lacking the "curiosity" to follow the "money trail" for fear their elders have had of it inevitably reaching all the way to my home country of South Africa, which during the Apartheid Government, that ruled for some 45 odd years beginning May 26th, 1948 with the most brutally repressive diamond studded iron fist, did not need to use any currency other than gold and platinum in securing for its peoples goods, services as well as other precious and limited mineral resources, not to forget the Apartheid Regime's need for the most sophisticated of the U.S.' weapon systems including biological weapons, were it not for the US Government's insistence on the South African Apartheid Regime "promoting" the Almighty U.S.-DeBeers Dollar when accepting payment in worthless US Dollars, never backed by gold from when the US went officially off the Gold Standard on August 15th, 1971, and in return the Apartheid Regime received the protection of the awesomely cruel and brutal US Armed Forces who in turn also protected the sea, land and air routes used to ship all of South Africa's precious and limited mineral resources for the benefit of US-British business interests who have understood for more than a century now the expression, "In war money is no object" as the financiers of the warring parties barter amongst themselves the resources needed for war that have been stolen previously using the "barrel of a gun", all the while promoting how stuff like the "rule of law" are so very important in maintaining the "credibility" of the "monetary system" along with the verbiage, "Free Enterprise System" all so very importantly used in conjunction with the US' BIG GUNS to steal blind from the poor and downtrodden masses who are simply misinformed, not stupid.

Moreover, they now have me on their side.

Golden rule: Who has the Gold makes the rules.

China has the gold, a people who "live to learn", a military second-to-none, along with a knowledge of history that includes why it was that the United States of America led an 8 Allied Nations invasion of China in 1900 stealing all of China's gold that had been harvested and wasn't nailed to the ground; all taking place right in the middle of the American financed Anglo Boer War of 1899-1902, all about stealing South Africa's precious mineral resources beginning with gold; not to forget the United States Government, that includes the Supreme Court of the United States and the CIA approving the financing of the South African and British based De Beers, the mafia of mafia, also at the turn of the last century.

Should you think, "This is all too much for me" let me pledge to you - just listening to a commercial on the radio about us so very generous Americans "making a pledge" to yet another charity to assuage our guilt - that within 60 seconds of hitting the send button, I will begin forwarding this communiqué along with your email address to other schools throughout the world including South Africa, Peru, Costa Rica, Israel, Russia; i.e. all the world's some 190 countries including those 60 which do not house US military bases, and not to every forget the 1.5 odd billion strong Peoples Republic of Communist China now fueling the world economy with a military whose most elite Special Forces are Israeli Special Forces trained and again, second-to-none.

Not to mention why it is that you haven't taught your school kids why 3 years following the brutal mass murder of 6 million European Jewish people, the United States Government led a blockade of the fledging Jewish State of Israel.

To mention little the very loud message David Ben Gurion, head of the Hagannah Jewish Underground operating from its headquarters in Jerusalem, Israel, received on January 14th, 1945 when President Roosevelt entertained on board the USS Quincy Ibn Saud of the House of Saud.

To mention in passing, you have now a most extraordinary fiduciary responsibility to inform your fellow teachers, administrators including your school board as well as your students, present as well as past, of the following ingenious Israeli Military Intelligence report:

Immediately following the Beijing Olympic Games, Al Quaida will launch a series of attacks on the oil fields of Qatar, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia that in the next instant will paralyze the US economy.

I am alone in broadcasting this most easy to understand "shot across the bow" of the corrupt US Government and my most responsible efforts in spreading the truth about the violent anarchists in the US Government quite obviously not bothering either Israeli Military Intelligence or the Mossad who have known everything there was to know about me well before I was first handed, by an Israeli Special Forces commando at the base of the high tension filled Golan Heights in northern Israel, the Israeli Uzi submachine gun you see me holding when age 9 and pointed it at my 15 month elder middle brother Melvin:

Serving as a further "introduction" and to better understand the concept, "Don't bite the hand that feeds you" is this article below penned by journalist Carolyn Dempster:

Friday, 12 April, 2002, 16:35 GMT 17:35 UK

Revenge of South Africa's 'Dr Death'

Dr Basson lashed out at the Truth Commission

By the BBC's Carolyn Dempster

Johannesburg

The man South Africa's media dubbed "Dr Death" was relaxed and smiling as he addressed reporters for the first time on Friday.

After an unremitting 30 months in the dock, Dr Wouter Basson was a free man.

“
A lot of what was said there [TRC] was conjecture, rumour-mongering and people

In a wry comment on the wrongness of his trial, he said the R40 million ($4 million) the state had spent prosecuting him could have been better spent paying for and providing the anti-Aids drug Nevirapine to HIV positive pregnant mothers.

who had motives of their own.

”

Dr Wouter Basson

It was a painful twist of the knife for the state which has not yet conceded defeat in the legal battle and aims to appeal against the verdict.

A spokesman for the ruling African National Congress has described the verdict as an "outrage".

Prejudice

Dr Basson was head of "Operation Coast", the apartheid government's secret biological and chemical warfare programme.

Many of the original charges against him emerged from testimony to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in its last months in 1996.

Witnesses testified to a catalogue of killing methods ranging from the grotesque to the horrific:

- "Operation Coast" sought to create "smart" poisons, which would only affect blacks, and hoarded enough cholera and anthrax to start epidemics.
- Naked black men were tied to trees, smeared with a poisonous gel and left overnight to see if they would die. When the experiment failed, they were put to death with injections of muscle relaxants.
- Weapon ideas included sugar laced with salmonella, cigarettes with anthrax, chocolates with botulism and whisky with herbicide.

Dr Basson grudgingly appeared before the commission, saying any evidence he gave there might prejudice his court case.

On Friday, he lashed out at the Truth and Reconciliation Commission:

"The verdict, I think, must to a large extent cast a little bit of doubt on the process.

"We've now shown that a lot of what was said there was conjecture, rumour-mongering and people who had motives of their own."

Yet many people whose relatives died at the hands of the apartheid government will not find it so easy to simply forgive and forget.

What they remember is that Dr Basson played a key role in the apartheid machinery, and did not ask for forgiveness, or amnesty, from the Truth Commission.

At the end of the 30-month trial, a number of questions remain unanswered.

Lock and key

Investigators from the Public Prosecutor's Office and the Office for Serious Economic Offences spent six years probing Dr Basson's activities.

They summoned 153 witnesses to help unravel the secrets of a programme designed to undermine and eliminate the opponents of apartheid, and to uncover the complex network of front companies that Dr Basson set up around the world.

The question increasingly being asked is: "Why didn't any of the charges stick?".

For a start secrecy still shrouds "Operation Coast".

Classified information on South Africa's biological warfare programme, which it developed with the assistance of British and United States intelligence services, was stored on CD-Rom.

The data was handed over to the incoming government of President Nelson Mandela by outgoing President FW de Klerk in 1994, and remains under lock and key.

Investigators in the case against Dr Basson never had access to the results of the apartheid chemical warfare research programme.

Dr Basson was re-employed by the South African National Defence Force in 1995 on the basis that unless he was kept "onboard", there could be no assurances "how he would use the knowledge he had acquired", the then Deputy Defence Minister Ronnie Kasrils said.

As a serving member of the force, his defence costs of about R10 million was paid for by the state.

Reluctant

In his judgement, Judge Willie Hartzenberg claimed the prosecution had failed to prove, beyond reasonable doubt, that Dr Basson was guilty of the 46 charges against him, including 19 of murder and conspiracy, as well as fraud totalling $5 million.

The picture that did emerge during the trial was that most of the murders in which he was implicated, were committed by agents of the apartheid state's Covert Co-operation Bureau, CCB, a secret unit of apartheid assassins.

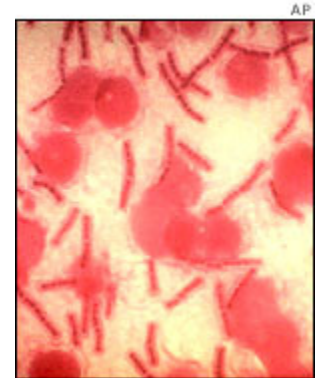

What the CCB operatives claimed in court was that although they did the dirty deeds, it was Dr Basson and his team at the Roodeplaats Laboratories who supplied the poisons and the means to deal out death.

Yet Judge Willie Hartzenberg was reluctant to believe the evidence of these men.

At one point he claimed that Dr Basson had been the victim of an unrelenting witchhunt, while a "repugnant" person like former military intelligence colonel Johan Theron, who testified that he had played a part in the murder of 200 members of the South West African People's Organisation, Swapo, remained a free man.

It was this attitude, and interventions from the judge that he was "bored to death" with all the documentation, and his refusal to travel to England to hear testimony from a former British secret agent, which prompted senior state prosecutor Anton Ackermann to accuse him of bias.

Appeal

The unit's plans allegedly included lacing cigarettes with anthrax

Only 36 days into the trial Mr Ackermann demanded the judge recuse himself from the case.

Judge Hartzenberg refused.

The animosity between the prosecution and the bench increased to the point where Mr Ackermann refused to continue with cross-questioning and left his junior colleague to prosecute the trial.

But the legal battle is not over.

The two sides will lock horns again on 29 April, when the prosecution applies for leave to appeal against the verdict.