I am sorry to hear that.

But what exactly does "intermittent" mean?

Is it a better or worse excuse you think for when being selective with what and when you respond to emails sent to you by people you obviously feel are less intelligent than you?

Who do you know besides for Dr. John K. Pollard Jr. on my email list?

Do feel better knowing or not knowing who is blind copied on this email without any of them knowing who else exactly is blind copied but every so often I share the names of those blind copied with selective, rather than random samplings of those blind copied?

Would you like to join Philippe and me possibly later for a sunset drink at the cliff house, assuming he isn't working?

Would you offer a suggestion to Philippe as to how he could improve his output in the time he has remaining all the while contributing to the betterment of humanity and of course having great fun with people such as you who when you do stop playing future hermit crabs and have to come out of your shell every so often such as when you want something from someone who is increasingly more likely to be on my email list than not on my one of a kind email list?

Can you finish the remainder of the ingenious Israeli Military Intelligence report that begins, "Immediately following...."?

Can you explain what the word, "sorry" means to you?

Have you examined closely either your pension fund and/or your Trust-Hush-Fund and therefore in a better position to determine whether you want to join me on the side of light recognizing that with each passing moment all those on the side of dark are being exposed by my small, relatively speaking, but extraordinary bright light?

Would you be interested in seeing a photo of Sebastian Capella's most beyond belief latest luscious landscape even though like most art experts throughout the world you wouldn't have a clue figuring out how best to evaluate his one-of-a-kind genius beginning by simply asking yourself whether you have seen anything close to as beautiful?

Do you think Israeli Military Intelligence or for that matter the Mossad are annoyed by me carbon copying them on this as well as every other communiqué I have been "putting out" going back to my first heavily broadcasted communiqué sent to my fighter-bomber-pilot father on his 77th Birthday back on October 18th, 2000?

There is a fair sized fishing boat going back and forth in front of our studio cliff house, how do you best think I should signal, "hello" apart from having my unbelievable figured wife wave when stark naked.

You understand I am now all alone and while entertained by the so very sweet singing birds and the sound of the awesome surf crashing up against the increasingly unstable cliffs right in front, I am very much missing Marie Dion Gevisser who should be back in about 10 minutes from class with Sebastian Capella.

Do you agree it really makes no sense to continue all this nonsense about "privacy" when you know as much as you do about the De Beers-Anglo American Cartel with access to pretty much everything the Mossad has on each one of us bearing in mind that the DAAC don't have God on their side, not even close!

What do you think about my selection for what Marie Dion Gevisser should wear this coming Wednesday night when we celebrate my 51st birthday?

Or do you think you might agree although both the Jean Paul Gualtter red dress and Derek Lam green coat are beyond belief beautiful which is why we have them next to Sebastian Capella's so alive and godly yellow roses, having MDG go out just wearing the coat and shoes would be equally perfect assuming the temperature is as perfect as it is now.

Have you noticed how all your poor conditioning about human nakedness is starting to recede given how you are finding it equally impossible to just breath given the mush your brain is currently feeling as you are only just beginning to come to terms with the extent to which you have been so very miserably deceived by those you trusted most including your own brain increasingly being taken over by a most vengeful but so loving God who does not take kindly to those who usurp their limited authority!

I just can't wait to question later today, the boyfriend of my wife's daughter as the two of them consider "opting out" with her Trust-Hush-Fund to go live in a Tee-pee and attend a community college when not playing Trust-Hush-Fund kids, and that assumes of course both her very busy daughter and boyfriend have the time when visiting on this Easter break.

MDG just walked in the cliff house carrying her latest

I am presently away from the office until March 31, 2008. I will only have intermittent access to email until then. I am sorry.

Francis
