Neil – I understand from Gary that your father only earned some 500 Rand per month, the maximum he ever earned in the more than a quarter of a century he worked for the multi-national conglomerate, public corporation, The Moshal Gevisser Group of Companies where he shared an office throughout the period 1969-1946 with his father, your grandfather Israel Issy Gevisser which was located right next to the office of Sol Moshal, the Managing Director of MG's.

Gary says he doesn't recall very much you or any of his two other elder siblings visiting with your dad and grandfather Issy although he was of course much younger; but then again you were mostly away at boarding school and so it would make sense that you didn't spend as much time with your grandfather Issy or for that matter your father Bernie when they were "at work".

So getting back to this rather miniscule amount that your father earned bearing in mind how much it cost for you to attend the private schools of Highbury and most expensive Michaelhouse which is the education you pride yourself on most, rather than Natal University where I also understand from Gary you so showed up the sociology and psychology professors to the point that you didn't even bother completing your degree, dropping out and going to Hotel School in Johannesburg, South Africa, although I may have got that "backwards".

Have you ever thought until now that you had been fed a whole bunch of nonsense by your mother simply to test your IQ although I understand Zena only would refer to the importance she and her father Albert Badash-Ash attached to "common sense".

Did it not occur to you to at least question whether your mother was partially if not totally out of her mind when "putting down" both Sol Moshal who she referred to as "The Little King" as well as your grandfather Issy who she kept repeating was simply taking up space in the office next to Sol "Little King" Moshal who decided that the job both your father and grandfather was doing was worth no more than 1,000 Rand, leaving you to conclude that had your grandfather simply retired "when he should have" then your father would be "entitled" to earn twice the amount and then all the arguments about money "at home" would not be necessary.

BTW when you read in your mother's memoirs how upon hearing that her future father-in-law Issy Gevisser owned priceless properties in Haifa harbor, Israel, "she [Zena] rapidly felt at home in Israel" bearing in mind there is no record of Zena visiting Israel prior to "From the earliest days of 1949 she [Zena] visited Israel two and three times a year."

Isn't it also interesting that Zena doesn't refer once in her memoirs to the name of your father's father, Israel Issy Gevisser, but does mention your uncle David Gevisser's parents, both Maurice Gevisser and Janie Moshal Gevisser.

Gary tells me that one thing all 4 of you siblings knew for certain was that Zena and Janie were very close.

Bear in mind again Janie was the sister of Sol "Little King" Moshal.

So back we go to what did you know and when did you know it?

Did you know for example that your grandfather Israel Issy Gevisser was not born a cripple and most likely did push his own wheel barrow picking up unbroken bottles off the dirt streets when first arriving in Durban, South Africa at the turn of the last century having left his ancestral home of Vilnius, Lithuania?

In fact Gary tells me that he never even once carried a walking stick given how rather strong and virile was your grandfather until the very end when he "came to terms" that he and your father had been "hoodwinked" by Sol "Little King" Moshal who I bet my bottom last worthless-fictitious US-DeBeers Dollar you never questioned your mother or father how it would be possible for the "Little King" to be "calling the shots" when your grandfather Issy owned the "control block" of shares in the heavily traded and well known public corporation which included ACME TIMBER where Sol Moshal's "blue eyed boy" David Gevisser worked?

You have always believed the story, at least that is what I understand from Gary, that the reason "The Little King" decided to do the "dirty" on the "Gevisser boys" was because his favorite nephew, again David Gevisser, decided to "hang his hat" with the American Charles Engelhard which very much upset his uncle Sol Moshal who like Engelhard had no male heirs.

I never went to university but I did take a couple of economic courses at a city college.

Have you ever read a single economics book apart from what you learned at Michaelhouse?

Would it surprise you that while you "dilly dallied" at Michaelhouse wore expensive uniforms, played elitist white boy sports and won accolades that later had you feeling sick to your stomach knowing perfectly well you weren't competing against close to the best athletes in South Africa who were of course like they are throughout the world black and who win big time and again against their white boy counterparts in each and every sport where they can afford to compete, your grandfather Issy was singularly focused on keeping his finger on the pulse of Moshal Gevisser as he went about painstakingly, methodically and every so patiently paging through each and every invoice issued by the many sales departments of Moshal Gevisser.

Have you ever heard the accounting terms, "Accounts receivable aging"?

Did you know that one of the things your father felt “depressed” the value of the shares of Moshal Gevisser was that the “Little King” kept worthless stock in the warehouses that the accountants failed to write off on the books of Moshal Gevisser so that when Natie Kirsh came along and “closed shop” he was so “caught by surprise”?

Now of course you know full well the end of the story when Natie and partners made the most unbelievable “killing” when simply liquidating all that “worthless” inventory in the warehouses and then so “brilliantly” deciding to just bring in an auctioneer to sell off all the real estate of MGs that had been purchased for cash on the instruction of your grandfather Issy as Natie and Co. sipped their martinis and wine, and very possibly smoked their Cuban cigars, and collected “big time”.

Do you think your grandfather while knowing from reviewing each and every bill of sale what was and was not selling?

Do you think your grandfather needed to have a tape recorder beside him to remind him that he had purchased every piece of real estate for cash without a single mortgage, blasting repeatedly that the value of such real estate on the books of PUBLIC CORPORATION had no been “revalued” to fair market value in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting-Auditing Principles?

Did you know that Gary tutored first year accounting-finance-business students at the University of Natal-Kwazulu, South Africa in the first quarter of 1978, immediately prior to getting on a plane at Louis Botha Airport, Durban South Africa, on March 16th, 1978 accompanied by your father, destination Chicago, Illinois without your father aware that your mother had slipped Gary two unsealed envelopes containing two different letters of introduction signed by your uncle David Gevisser?

Do you recall ever once asking Gary how he got a “nothing to speak of job” at Codiam Inc. located on 47th Street, New York City?

Have you ever thought of picking up the phone to Stephen Cohen and asking him what he thinks of the back and forth between his son Leon and Gary beginning on November 11th, 2004?

<http://www.just3ants.com/emails/debeers/default.shtml>

Pretty amazing how Gary timed breaking his 24 year deafening silence to coincide when Stephen would be not only in Florida but having computer problems, that allowed not only the FBI to see “first hand” the onetime close-knit relationship between Gary, Stephen and most of all Martin Rapaport, a name in all likelihood you never heard until after this most memorable dialogue that is now going on 4 years old, but stands as quite the testament to a number of things.

So what stops you now from following through on your desire not to help Gary and me but for you to simply “make money”?

I suspect that you have been talking to your trademark lawyers about first getting a t-shirt trademark for some of your very smart blank verses but my guess is that if you were to have first spoken with your mother she would tell you,

“You are out of your mind. What were you thinking when replying so money conscious to Adam apart from wanting to be like the so maddening crowd wanting to make money at any cost?”

You of course had thought both Gary and I had forgotten that your mother has stolen Gary’s bachelor apartment in Sea point, Cape town.

Did you know that generally when an adult steals it is not the first time.

I must now go as I have no more than a day or two before I will be receiving an eviction notice but as you know from my writings I have never in my entire life felt so free and so awesomely invigorated.

Can you say the same?
