Mike – timing is everything – talking of which I miscalculated a tricky spot on my mountain bike some 10 days ago ripping my little finger on a rusty barbwired fence, now using 2 fingers to type something I have never given how my mother taught me from the youngest age to touch type without looking from when in my early teens which was quite something back in the late 60s early 70s for a guy let alone a guy who had his mother write all his English essays and it wasn't simply because no one including me could read my handwriting but because I found writing fiction stories so very boring considering the beyond belief non-fiction story of my and my mother's life that was unfolding before my very eyes.

Have you ever thought about what it does to one's mind when lying, making up fictional stories even if it only for an English essay class?

Once a liar always a liar is one of the expressions we all pretty much know and yet we don't dig any deeper, the same with the consequences of when Hitler said, "the masses will more easily fall victim to a big lie than a small lie" we can't even think about who was his audience apart from those buttering his bread including the pope?

How quickly when we keep repeatedly hearing, "no, no, no no" and then the parent eventually says "yes" we inevitably hear when hearing "no, no, no no" ONLY "yes, yes, yes, yes" and of course the only respect comes when we, the parent-s smack them across the face.

So awesomely cruel and outrageous are us parents when raising a kid-s to ever once use the word "no" and not mean it, let alone fail to say "I'm sorry" when feeling forced to even lift an aggressive hand let alone land a single blow and the worst damage is that fricken silent treatment that the kids then perfect on their own, until such time as someone like me comes around and says, "just think about why only a scoundrel parent wouldn't allow their child to be raised in a kibbutz style environment and to be allowed to "fly free and high from the youngest of age" by simply always telling truth and when we the parent don't have the answer to the question such as who financed Hitler to help answer the question by participating in the research rather than simply say, "well they must have been bad people" when we all know when financing any business proposition there is first and foremost a business plan with a whole variety of options in the event not everything goes according to plan and in those instances like war when you back both sides you always come out a winner, period..

The Nazis who murdered half my Jewish family won World War II and those winners can also be found in each one of our immediate families just by seeing how they not only duck the question but when answering, "they must have been bad people."

This may not succinctly explain the purpose of just3ants.com but I am not only in a lot of pain but I am pressed for time as I have a doctor's appointment in half an hr in Encinitas and I will be riding my wife's scooter and I still have to pick up a splint at Longs in Solana Beach.

Take as much time as you want in replying with your own thoughts and personal experiences but be sure to let me know if you could stop by our cliff house sometime this evening to show you the first most awesome design that my brilliant wife the queen ant came up with that adam I tucker is helping place up on photoshop before sending it hopefully tomorrow to the printer.

If you can't make it then we will just email it to you – it would help you though understand the evolution of this “rotting fish” how are you doing? i was at work today and saw your card next to the computer and was actually thinking about emailing you, seeing how things are going. i would love to help you out with some input for the shirts and i would love it if you could educate me a little bit more and clarify a few things for me, i am very curious about what you're organization is all about and i would love to contribute anything i can. the rest of this week I am pretty swamped with work at the coffee shop, but maybe sometime this weekend, let me know what you're thinking and maybe you could stop by java kai while i'm working.

Gary,

hope to hear from you and see you soon

Mike

Mike hello – we are about to go into production of t-shirts, just finalizing the first of our designs. I would like to get your input and at the same time see about getting you in short order to become very financially successful while of course doing the right thing.

Let me know when we can get together.

Gary
